We will teach you a revolutionary new Collaborative Team approach to assisting families through divorce which will not only change your client's lives but your life too.

- The Level I and II Interdisciplinary Collaborative Team Course is intended for Mental Health Professionals, Lawyers, Divorce Financial Specialists, Accountants and others who are interested in becoming Collaborative Team Practice professionals.
- We will take you through a case, step by step
- Provide you with the documents and tools you need
- Teach you what you need to cover with clients during the first meeting
- Show you how team meetings work
- Explain communication protocols among team members and debriefing
- Share our client-friendly participation agreement (worth the price of admission itself)
- Detail the role of each professional so you will know how you fit into the team and what the others will be doing
- We will teach using a variety of methods including lecture, partner-shares, group-shares, role plays, break out groups and the provision of written materials
- You will be ready to begin practicing as part of a Collaborative Team
- This course may qualify for up to 16 hours of Continuing Education for lawyers, financial specialists and mental health professionals
- You will develop the sound bites you need to market and launch your practice

Remember to invite your colleagues to join you. Previous attendees have told us that training with their colleagues has really helped to build their collaborative teams and increase their collaborative cases.

The Divorce Team has been offering training since 2004. Our interdisciplinary trainers are Sue Cook (Family Coach), Brian Galbraith (Collaborative Lawyer), Gail Belchior and Bronwen Bruch (Financial Professionals).
